of the board, but none of the good parts are wasted, and the consequence is that when he has got thru with a pile of lumber a minimum had gone to the workman and a minimum to the kindling wood pile.

After the lumber is cut up it is all surfaced in a careful manner, so that it is even in thickness, making it possible to make good joints and well finished work. There is but very little of the work done strictly by hand, as there is practically nothing that is not assisted in some way by machinery. The sandpapering is all done by machinery, where it is a flat surface the action being practically automatic, and where the surface is uneven it is done by the pneumatic sander, a contrivance where a sand belt runs over an air-inflated cushion, and when the article to be smoothed is held against this it is brought to a finish that is quite remarkable. In the gluing and veneering, the work is assisted by a hydraulic press by the aid of which it is possible to subject the wood to a pressure of 100 tons, and after a joint is made in this manner there is very little chance of it ever being warped apart by the weather.

Many different kinds of wood are entering into the finish of furniture this year, and if there are any great preferences it is not particularly apparent in the finished work, as there seems to be all kinds represented. A very nicely finished work, with a most brilliant and contrasty grain, is turned out by using elm for veneer. Elm was once considered about as poor wood as could be found for any thing, too poor to burn, oven, but made into veneer, and put over a solid foundation it presents a most handsome appearance, and after being stained and finished it is doubtful if the most experienced woodman could tell what kind of wood it was. The general finish of oak this year is dark, a sort of an antique, varying considerably to suit the different tastes. There are also many shades of mahogany used, some of them being as rich and dark as if they had stood a hundred years. Some handsome effects are also being produced by the use of birdseye maple, these pieces being finished in white, and it would be hard to find anything more handsome than some of the dressers that are being made by the Oberbeck factory this spring. In finishing with a piece of veneer care is taken to have the same piece of wood extend from the top to the bottom of the piece of furniture, as in the case of a dresser or chiffonier, all of the drawers and the partitions between will have the same grain extending all down the face of the work.

Taken altogether the furniture business is an industry that is of considerable importance even to Grand Rapids, and the amount of money that is sent in here and distributed for wages amount to a good round sum in the course of a year. The demand for the product is moderately steady, taken year by year, and one drawback being possibly that competition is a trifle too keen and necessarily cuts down the profits to the lowest possible notch.

Special Vegetable Cars.

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway has made quite a study of special cars for various commodities handled, among which are specifically constructed vegetable cars. This is the only line west of Chicago having this special class of equipment. So popular have these cars become that the above line has found it necessary to add from time to time to this class of equipment, and they now have about 500 in service.

These cars have a capacity of 50,000 lbs.; a cubic foot capacity of 25,061 cubic feet; they are constructed the same as refrigerator cars with the exception that they have no ice tanks, no trap doors, and no drip pipes, making them as nearly frost proof as possible in handling vegetables during the fall and winter months, as they will protect vegetables to ten degrees below zero. They are very popular with potato and cabbage shippers.

Rural Carriers to Have Road.

The postmaster general has issued a notice that all other rural mail carriers have the right of way on country roads, and that no other carriages or conveyances must surrender the right of way to the rural carriers.

This order was issued as the result of numerous complaints on the part of carriers who were not able to deliver their mail in the specified time because carriages and conveyances which they met refused to give them the right of way and often made it necessary for them to drive slower to wait until the road was clear before they could proceed.

A fine will be charged to all vehicles in any way interfere with the speed of delivery of the rural, and as a carrier is also fined and sometimes deposed for late delivery, he will no doubt see to it that any person responsible for his delay will bear the punishment instead of himself.

Change in Time of Publication.
Hereafter the Tribune will be issued Wednesday noon instead of Wednesday evening as heretofore, and as a consequence persons who have advertisements or notices for publication will have to get same into the office a little earlier than they did. This also applies to correspondents, who will have to have their matter into the office by Tuesday noon. The change is made on account of the mail carriers, so that they can take the papers out on their afternoon delivery instead of the morning, when they have a load without carrying the bundle of local papers. It is thought that the change will be more satisfactory to all concerned.

Will Make Electrical Display.
Mamger Kordenat of the Electric and Water Company, states that sometime in the near future he intends making an electrical display in this city for the purpose of showing the people of the city what can be done in the home with the aid of electricity. There are many devices now in existence for use in homes that are operated by electricity, and as the company is now about ready to furnish day current to all parts of the city, people who desire to can make use of the different contrivances.

Saloon Keepers Arrested.
Four saloon keepers were arrested at Wausau last week charged with allowing young girls to attend dances at halls in the same building with the saloon. There is a law which makes it a misdemeanor to allow a young girl to attend a dance in a building where there is a saloon unless accompanied with the parents or guardian. Seventeen is the requisite age, and it would seem as if the law was a very good one.

Lawrence University Coach Says Grand Rapids May Be in Bas- ket Ball Tournament.

Appleton, Wis., March 12.—"Hedcates Grand Rapids has met and defeated some of the strong basket bal-leagues of the Wisconsin river valley and now holds a record unblemished by defeat at the hands of any high school five, a team representing the high school of that city may be selected as one of the eight to participate in and battle for state championship in the big tournament to be held at Lawrence university gymnasium on April 5, 6 and 7," said coach Koehler yesterday while talking about the coming annual event in which high school basketball players all over the eastern section of the state are now interested.

"I have received a communication from the management of the Grand Rapids high school team," continued the Lawrence coach, "in which he states that his team is undefeated."
I have observed the record made by the Grand Rapids five and now believe that the Wisconsin river city will
sented in the tournament. Records of the teams of the state will not be handed in until March 20, at which time it will be definitely determined what schools will be represented, but in view of Grand Rapids' unbroken string of victories it is safe to predict that they will be given an opportunity to battle for state honors."

Among the other teams that are said to be in line for tournament entries are Ashkosh, Antigo, Fond du Lac, Appleton, Milwaukee east district and possibly Milwaukee south division. Interest in the tournament is intense and communications concerning eligibility are being received daily by the management. Grand Rapids was represented in the tourna-

The management of the tournament has already begun preparations for the event. Upwards of $100 will be spent in the purchase of guild, silver and bronze medals to be awarded to the three teams winning first, second and third places, and to the individual members of each of the winning teams. The co-eds of Grimsby

Paper Making Record.
One of the largest machines of the Rhineland Paper Co., at Rhineland, made a remarkable run last Saturday. In 24 hours machine No. 1 turned out 71,200 pounds of paper, the grade being 32 pound paper. Its average run was 335 feet per minute, width of paper 107 inches. During this run there were but two breaks in the paper, one on the day shift and one on the night shift, and one hour's time was lost in washing the felt. This record has not been equaled in the Wisconsin Valley. It certainly is a great record for a comparatively new mill, and the management, officers and employees have reason to feel proud of the achievement. Appleton Post.

New Cable Crossing.

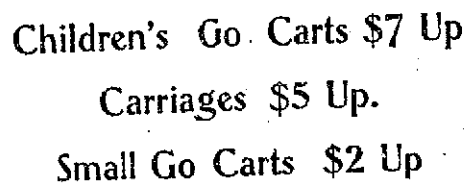

The telephone company has ordered a new cable to span the river, and it is expected that it will be here in the near future. There was some discus-sion as to how it was best to put up the cable, but it was decided to put it onto poles with two spans, reaching across the river. Two steel poles have been ordered and one of these will be placed at the east end of the bridge and another at the center pier and the cable suspended from a heavy wire. The old cable that has been attached to the bridge has become very poor with a multiplicity of cracks, owing to the fact that it was suspended from the bridge where it was sub-jected to constant vibration.

Planting Trout.

Ten cans of brook trout fry arrived in this city on Thursday for local fishermen, and they were taken out the same day and planted in the streams on the east side of the river. There are said to be about four million in each can, so if only a portion of them arrive at maturity it would furnish rea-son for the lower of the sport for some time to come. It seems that the demand for the fry considerably exceeds the supply, for some of

The schedule of games for the tournament will be announced on March 26. In view of the fact that Grand Rapids is located considerably further from Appleton than some of the other cities to be represented in the tournament it is probable that the team from that city will not be called upon for game until the second day of the tournament.

Grand Rapids has a number of students at Lawrence university and they are already buying themselves in the interest of the basketball boys from their home city and will see that the committee in charge will procure the best accommodations for them during their three days' stay in Appleton.

Saturday is St. Patrick's day. This is the day on which all good Irishmen are supposed to get on a green ribbon, a pair of spats and go out and see his friends. This is the day on which St. Patrick banished the snakes and other crawling creatures from Ireland. At least, that is what a fellow told us once. This fellow also said that the Irish had adopted whiskey as the national drink. In order to, in a measure make up for the scarcity of snakes over in that country since St. Patrick was there, there are two kinds of Irishmen now. One wears a green ribbon on St. Patrick's day and the other wears an orange ribbon. Whenever one of the green ribbon fellows sees one of the yellow ribbon guys coming, the green fellow generally hurries back to the woodshed and gets the ax, so that the death of the other fellow will be swift and painless as possible. The Irish is a queer race. It is said that the only country they do not rule is Ireland, and they even want to rule that. There are only two times during a year when an Irishman will drink whiskey: One of these is on St. Patrick's day and the other is when there is a circus in town. There are many other things about St. Patrick's day and the Irish, but it might not be just the right thing to put them in print.

City clerk Boles reports that there have been no nomination papers filed for any of the city offices as yet, although there are a number being circulated about the city, and it is apparent that there will be a plentiful sufficiency to fill all of the offices. Among the new cases that have developed during the past week are T. J. Cooper for justice of the peace and Sam Church for city treasurer.

Examined Our Schools.

State Superintendent C. E. Carey and state high school inspector H. S. Curry were in the city on Tuesday for the purpose of inspecting our high schools. After going over the plans of the schools, they expressed their opinion that the teaching force in this city was as strong or stronger than that in any other place they had visited in the state.

Anton Kallan, an inmate in the county jail at Stevens Point, made his escape from that institution Saturday night, sawing one of the bars of soft iron from a window. The jailer suggests that in view of the fact that three prisoners have escaped in this manner that it would be a good idea for the county board to have the bars painted. The jail had been inspected only a few days before.

It is said that the Adventists are again considering Grand Rapids as a place to hold their annual encampment this year. The Adventists met here twice, on both of which occasions there was a large crowd in attendance, and our people would not doubt like to see them with us again, and stand ready to extend any help that is practicable. It is said that they have also been looking over the ground at Stevens Point and Marshfield.

He has been stationed at Jolo since about the first of February, 1905, and his wife and three children must have been almost white with hearing distance of his gun when the battle was going on. He was in command of the Twenty-eighth Infantry Field Artillery—the guns of which, according to the report of Gen. Wood, "had to be lifted by block and tackle a distance of 200 feet into a position on the tip of the center."

The leaves are working. At the sixteen annual meeting convention of the Wisconsin Retail Lumber Dealers' association in Milwaukee last week Secretary P. Lachmund, a staunch, stalwart republican, offered a resolution calling for the removal of the tariff duty on lumber. It is surprising how some republicans will stick up for the tariff while it draws upon the other fellow but squeal when it touches their own purses. This so-called protection is rightly coming to be understood as a legalized form of graft.—Wausau Herald.

PUTTSVILLE.

Nekosau Times.—Last week Ed. Clack shipped a mixed carload of cabbage to Kansas City, Mo.

This completed his shipments of cabbage for this year. Mr. Clack secured good prices for his cabbage, the Danish Bald Head variety, which he raised being the best keeper on the market. The past season was unfavorable to cabbage cultivation and the crop was very short, making prices unusually high. Mr. Clack considers the soil around Puttsville excellent for cabbage raising and expects that a large amount of it will be raised here the coming season.

It will be prepared to furnish seed at $2.50 per pound if orders are placed at the same time he gets his own seed; otherwise the seed will be worth $3.

The farmers should investigate this matter at once as it will pay them to raise this variety of cabbage.

Mr. Clack intends to build an addition to his warehouse and will be in a position to buy all the Danish Bald Head cabbage raised in the vicinity of this city.

A Tale of the Upper Ten.

Ten pairs of ladies' boots, all displayed in line.
One offended customer, and that left only nine.
Nine pairs of ladies' boots still remained in state.
But intending customer soon narrowed them to eight.
Eight pairs of ladies' boots, but still the same old seven.
Working hard and overtime reduced the lot to seven.
Seven pairs of ladies' boots—the customer still packs.
And casts aside another pair, and there remained but six.
Six pairs of ladies' boots—the customer, alive.
To every fault, decides again, thus leaving only five.
Five pairs of ladies' boots, the choicest in the store.
Another quick decision, and all that's left are four.
Four pairs of ladies' boots, all beautiful to see.
The wearied shopper still rejects, and there are only three.
Three pairs of ladies' boots—another still won't do.
The patient salesman's chances now are figured down to two.
Two pairs of ladies' boots—the salesman's task seems done.
For now the shopper's eager eyes are fastened on to one.
One pair of ladies' shoes—the shopper took no chance.
She wanted style and quality—she got it in "LaFrance"

But in 1873 the financial crisis struck Lynn. Its length and severity were much for the large real estate interests of the Pinkham family, as this time of business suffered most fearful depression, so when the Centennial year dawned it found their property swept away. Some other source of income had to be found.

At this point Lydia E. Field's Vegetable Compound was made known to the world.

The meeting was called to order by the superintendent Yunker, and the meeting proceeded to elect Mr. E. P. Yunker chairman, and H. S. Yunker secretary. The matter of electing a committee was then taken up and resulted in the following selection. All of the following committees were elected:

Briefly—buy a Cole's Hot Blast Coal Stove

AMONG CRANBERRY MEN.

EDITED BY W. H. FITCH.
(All communications and special exchanges relating to this department should be sent to Cranberry Men, Grand Rapids, Wis.)

A Packer Personal.

The people of Des Moines, Ia., particularly the produce people—are very great and rich. They are great exporters, and at the last of the members of the Western Fruit Dealers' Assn., last week, they clearly demonstrated their worth as such.

A. C. Chaney, the master of cranberries and practically the father of the association, was a very busy man. In fact, he had more business on hand than the proverbial cranberry man, and that means that he played the game with himself and won.

The first delegates to each Des Moines met Chaney first, and the last man to leave his home the last night. In fact, Chaney was "Johnny-on-the-spot" at all times.

If you stood on the street corner at midnight (yes, this is a more realistic thing), Chaney would be, as out of the earth, and stand before you with an at-your-service smile on his face. If you would like the city Chaney would provide you with the keys and send a messenger boy along to tell you which one to use. In the hotel corridor and in the convention room (Chaney was always on the alert for a chance to make the visit, pleasant for the town guests, and the performance of the business of the convention easier for the members.

"This will be appreciated by the delegates, which means friends of the popular cranberry buyer and distributor.

The Profit in Cold Storage.

Wallace Farmer—The normal difference between the price of eggs in the summer and the price of the same eggs sold in the winter, after being kept in cold water storage, has not increased (with whom the egg production on the farm is quite uncertain) thinking whether it would not pay them to put up a small storage plant on the farm, and thus be able to compete in their home market with the packers from Chicago, who of late have been paying great attention to the egg and poultry market. They are wondering why an egg kept in a farmer's cold storage plant would not be worth quite as much to the consumer as the egg kept in cold storage houses in Chicago, and why the late-hatched chicken may not be converted into a spring chicken to compete with the farmer's broilers quite as well on the farm as in Chicago.

Inasmuch as very few farmers will care to go to the expense of putting up a cold storage plant, this thought has occurred to me. Why would it not be a proper subject for co-operation and merely for the keeping of eggs and chickens, but for the turning of eggs into a winter season? It is well known that a piece of inferior beef kept long enough in cold storage, becomes quite tender, so that the grass fed beef from the range compares with the lower grades of corn-fed cattle.

We have no suggestions to offer on this subject. It is simply one of the things that it might be worth while for the farmer to think about, if for nothing else than to turn his attention to the subject of co-operation, which, as the country grows older and lands higher in price, will become more important each year.

Trade Topics.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 23, 1909.
W. H. Fitch, Cranberry Men, Wis.
Dear Sir:—We beg to advise you that we have recently opened our sales office here at Buffalo and are able to handle your business on all sizes of packages. We have some basswood staves which no doubt, will interest you in the manufacture of your cranberry barrels.

If you will advise us when you will be in the market, we will be pleased to submit you prices.

Trusting that you will let us hear from you by return mail, we beg to remain, Yours truly, H. G. Dickinson, Asst. Mgr. The Buckeye Stave Co.

Reply.

In reply to your letter of the 23rd inst.—May be permitted to suggest that an attendance at our summer (August) convention would be a fitting and profitable opportunity to get in touch with leading and large growers, and also that the Tribune—official medium—might also be found of service and benefit. With thanks for past help and pleasure of acquaintance, we remain respectfully, W. H. Fitch, Sec'y.

A story is going the rounds of the territory press of a farmer living a few miles from Henrietta who was his old suit until everybody was tired of it and his estimable wife was almost ashamed of him. But one day when selling produce in town, he determined to buy a new suit, and a happy thought struck him. He would surprise his wife. So he bundled a new suit into the wagon, hurried towards home, and at the bridge, two miles from town, he stood up in the wagon and "pooled" and threw the despised old suit into the creek. Then he reached for his new clothes. They were gone—had gotten out of the wagon! The night was cold, his teeth chattered and he hurried for home. He surprised his wife even more than he had anticipated.—Kansas City Journal.

A Chicago Alderman Owe his Election to Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"I can heartily and conscientiously recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for all cases of the throat which attacked my throat, and I was finally compelled to stop, as I could not speak aloud. In my extremity a friend advised me to use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I took two doses that afternoon and could not believe my senses when I found the next morning the inflammation had largely subsided. I took several doses that day, kept right on talking through the campaign, and I thank this medicine that I won my seat in the council. This remedy is for sale by John E. Daly, druggist."

What a Company Tells its Policyholders.

Wall Street Journal.—One of the best results of the recent insurance investigation is the greater fullness of the annual reports made by the various companies to their policyholders. Not only the companies largely under investigation, but all others have in a large measure recognized and met the demand for increased publicity. Policyholders are now obtaining information never before given to them, and thanks to the education they have received through the instrumentality of the recent investigation and newspaper discussion they are better able to understand the significance of the details spread before them.

Each insurance report, as it now appears, makes a fit subject for study, and for this reason The Wall Street Journal is in turn taking up for analytical treatment the statements of the leading companies.

One of the latest of the pamphlet reports is that of the Northwestern Mutual of Milwaukee. This report is notable because it contains, in addition to the usual financial statement, an account of the organization and business principles of the company, together with details as to the cost of management, the salaries and duties of officers, the compensation for agents, and so on. This is such a wholesome and beneficent way of conducting a business of this character, that it cannot be too highly commended. Instead of withholding such details as being in the nature of "trade secrets," they are distinctly the right of policyholders, and the time is at hand when the disclosures will be even more complete.

It is a great gain for insurance policyholders when a large company like the Northwestern takes them into its confidence as partners in the business.

University Gets Steam Turbine

Madison, Wis., March 3.—The college of engineering of the University of Wisconsin has just received a Curtis steam turbine which is being installed in the mechanical laboratory of the engineering building. The new machine, which is in part the gift of the General Electric Co., will be used for the instruction of students and for experimental work. It is of thirty-five horse-power capacity, and is considered one of the most efficient types of steam turbine on the market. Owing to the increasing importance of this kind of machine in electrical plants, as well as its successful application recently for ship propulsion, the college of engineering considers itself very fortunate in securing this valuable addition to its laboratory equipment.

The idea of the turbine is quite simple, and is similar to the water turbine or impulse wheel. In the Curtis turbine velocity is imparted to the steam in an expanding nozzle, so designed as to efficiently convert the expansive force, between the pressure limits used, into velocity in the steam itself. After leaving the nozzle steam passes successively thru the vanes situated on the outer surface of a revolving cylinder, then thru the space provided in a reversed system of vanes upon the surface of a stationary cylinder. From this it again passes to the vanes situated upon a moving cylinder similar to the first. In passing successively thru these moving and stationary elements, the velocity acquired is fractionally abstracted and largely given to the moving cylinders. It is thus seen that the steam rebounds alternately from moving to stationary vanes until brought nearly to a rest.

Altho it cannot be assumed that the old reciprocating engine will be replaced generally by the new one, still the turbine has many distinct features which make it a strong rival of other types of engines. Owing to the great velocity which it develops it is especially valuable in central power station work. Its recent successful application for ocean steam ship propulsion promises to result in its more general application for this purpose. For the lighting of trains, and for all purposes which demand high economy with the occupation of the least possible space, the turbine cannot be excelled.

The story of the evolution of the steam turbine is an interesting one. Two hundred years before the Christian era Hero describes a steam engine in the form of a supported globe, steam issuing from two bent pipes and the globe turning on its axis by the unbalanced pressure thus produced.

In 1629 Giovanni Branca, the Italian physicist described an apparatus in which the steam issuing from a boiler impinged upon the blades of a horizontal wheel.

Since first applications of the force of steam were for the time set aside by the work of the immortal Watt in the creation of the reciprocating condensing engine and the engine of Watt has held the attention of the world without a real rival until very recently. About twenty years ago Carl DeLaval, the Swedish inventor, recognizing new principles in the flow of steam, produced a new form of the turbine, first tried centuries before. The DeLaval turbine, it was soon at once, rivaled the great creation of Watt, and was destined to take its place in the engineering world.

Following the introduction of this machine have come many other forms of the modern turbine, prominent among which is the Curtis type just added to the Wisconsin college of engineering.

Are Patent Medicines Frauds?

We are often asked the above question, and our answer has invariably been that no medicine that gives satisfactory results could be fraudulent. We could not afford to sell fraudulent medicines. Our business depends on pleased customers—in fact any business does. Therefore, we would take an enormous risk did we not fulfil every promise made our customers. We are very careful of what we guarantee, and when we do guarantee an article we must know it pretty well—what it contains and how it is made. We have in mind the Rexall Muc-Tone, of which we are selling large quantities at this time of the year. Muc-Tone is one article that we can recommend over our counter and know that ninety-eight per cent. of its purchasers are going to be benefited and will return to our store pleased customers. Muc-Tone is a positive cure for internal sore throat or what is commonly called Catarrh. It is without a doubt the peer of all tonics for any one who is suffering from a run-down condition, not working, feels constantly tired or suffering from the more plainly described symptoms of Catarrh—such as stopping of the nose, cold in the head or bad cough.

It must be remembered that Catarrh is not confined to the nose and throat. It usually starts there, but it leads more often to serious trouble, particularly the wasting of tissues, as in the case of little Miss Dillon, of Albany. Here is a letter from her father:

"My little girl had catarrh so badly that the disease had begun to eat into the cartilage of the nose. Snuff and instruments failed to do more than give temporary relief. I saw the advertisement of Rexall Muc-Tone, but I could not believe that anything taken in the stomach could cure the nose membranes of the nose. However, I took advantage of your free trial offer and my girl began taking your remedy according to directions. I want to say right here that Muc-Tone is certainly the greatest medical discovery of the times, and to thank you for the liberal offer that first induced me to give it a trial. Muc-Tone has cured my daughter's catarrh completely. The discharge has stopped altogether, and her breath is as sweet as mine. I am very, very grateful to you. Again thanking you, MATT DILLON, 24 N. Swan St., Albany, N. Y."

We are selling a large trial bottle of Muc-Tone for fifty cents on the famous Rexall guarantee of your money back if you are not satisfied. We promise that one bottle will put flesh on your bones and bring new vitality to your system.

For Nervousness—Rexall's Americanitis Blixir, 75c.

For Dyspepsia—Rexall's Dyspepsia Cure, 25c.

For Coughs—Rexall's Cherry Juice, large bottle, 25c.

And—100 other Rexall Remedies for 150 other ailments.

A GREAT INDUSTRY.

A Visit to Our Furniture Factory
Results in an Interesting Hour.

On Friday a representative of the Tribune visited the Oberbeck Bros. Furniture factory, and thru the politeness of its manager, Ernest Oberbeck, was enabled to go thru the plant from stem to sturgeon, and watch the piece of wood as it entered at the back door from the dry kiln until it left the shipping room in the form of a nicely finished piece of furniture which at some time was calculated to please the heart of some housewife many a mile from where it was manufactured.

Many people imagine that making furniture is like sawing wood or laying brick or any other kind of manual labor. That it is only a question of muscular labor and a willingness to work. But such is not the case at all. The milliner goes out and studies the fashions and gets up new ideas as the seasons roll around, and the same is true of the furniture business. The styles change with the years, and stuff that was turned out last year are back numbers this season. This thinking of styles comes into the business and men are employed who receive large wages for getting out new designs each year.

The furniture business is like every other industry that depends on lumber for its life. Lumber is getting scarcer and higher every year and means are constantly being devised by which this amount and the quality used can be reduced. A few years ago logs were thrown away or not considered anything worth cutting that today are made up into veneer and used to finish up some of the coarser grades, and thus furniture is turned out that is really handsome in appearance, strong and durable in its make-up, and still at a price that is within the reach of people of ordinary means. Every piece of lumber as it enters the factory passes thru the hands of a man whose business it is to saw it into lengths that will be the most of the lumber. The bad parts are taken out of the board, but none of the good parts are wasted, and the consequence is that when he has got thru with a pile of lumber a maximum had gone to the workshop and a minimum to the landing wood pile.

After the lumber is cut up it is all surfaced in a careful manner, so that it is even in thickness, making it possible to make good joints and well finished work. There is but very little of the work done strictly by hand, as there is practically nothing that is not assisted in some way by machinery. The sandpapering is all done by machinery, where it is a flat surface the action being practically automatic, and where the surface is uneven it is done by the pneumatic sander, a contrivance where a sand belt runs over an air-inflated cushion, and when the article to be smoothed is held against this it is brought to a finish that is quite remarkable. In the gluing and veneering, the work is assisted by a hydraulic press by the aid of which it is possible to subject the wood to a pressure of 100 tons, and after a joint is made in this manner there is very little chance of it ever being warped apart by the weather.

Many different kinds of wood are entering into the finish of furniture this year, and if there are any great preferences it is not particularly apparent in the finished work, as there seems to be all kinds represented. A very nicely finished work, with a most brilliant and contrasty grain, is turned out by using elm for veneer. Elm was once considered about as poor wood as could be found for anything, too poor to burn, even, but made into veneer, and put over a solid foundation it presents a most handsome appearance, and after being stained and polished it is doubtful if the most experienced woodman could tell what kind of wood it was. The general finish of oak this year is ideal, a sort of an antique, varying considerably to suit the different tastes. There are also many shades of mahogany used, some of them being as rich and dark as if they had stood a hundred years. Some handsome effects are also being produced by the use of birdseye maple, these pieces being finished in white, and it would be hard to find anything more handsome than some of the dressers that are being made by the Oberbeck factory this spring. In finishing with a piece of veneer care is taken to have the same piece of wood extend from the top to the bottom of the piece of furniture, as in the case of a dresser or chiffonier, all of the drawers and the partitions between will have the same grain extending all down the face of the work.

Taken altogether the furniture business is an industry that is of considerable importance even to Grand Rapids, and the amount of money that is sent in here and distributed for wages amount to a good round sum in the course of a year. The demand for the product is moderately steady, taken year by year, and one drawback being possibly that competition is a trifle too keen and necessarily cuts down the profits to the lowest possible notch.

Special Vegetable Cars.

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway has made quite a study of special cars for various commodities handled, among which are especially constructed vegetable cars. This is the only line west of Chicago having this special class of equipment. So popular have these cars become that the above line has found it necessary to add from time to time to this class of equipment, and they now have about 300 in service.

These cars have a capacity of 50,000 lbs.; a cubic foot capacity of 25,000 cubic feet; they are constructed the same as refrigerator cars with the exception that they have no ice tanks, no trap doors, and no drip pipes, making them as nearly frost proof as possible in handling vegetables during the fall and winter months, as they will protect vegetables to ten degrees below zero. They are very popular with potato and cabbage shippers.

Rural Carriers to Have Road.

The postmaster general has issued a notice that all other rural mail carriers have the right of way on all country roads, and that all other carriers or conveyances must surrender the right of way to the rural carriers.

This order was issued as the result of numerous complaints on the part of carriers who were not able to deliver their mail in the specified time because of the mail carriers, so that they can take the papers out on their afternoon delivery instead of the morning, when they have a load without carrying the bundle of local papers. It is thought that the change will be more satisfactory to all concerned.

Will Make Electrical Display.
Manager Kordeman of the Electric and Water Company, states that some time in the near future he intends making an electrical display in this city for the purpose of showing the people of the city what can be done in the home with the aid of electricity. There are many devices now in existence for use in homes that are operated by electricity, and the company is now about ready to furnish day current to all parts of the city, people who desire to run make use of the different contrivances.

Change in Time of Publication.

Hereafter the Tribune will be issued Wednesday noon instead of Wednesday evening as heretofore, and as a consequence persons who have advertisements or notices for publication will have to get same into the office a little earlier than they did. This also applies to correspondents, who will have to have their matter into the office by Tuesday noon. The change is made on account of the mail carriers, so that they can take the papers out on their afternoon delivery instead of the morning, when they have a load without carrying the bundle of local papers. It is thought that the change will be more satisfactory to all concerned.

Will Make Electrical Display.

Manager Kordeman of the Electric and Water Company, states that some time in the near future he intends making an electrical display in this city for the purpose of showing the people of the city what can be done in the home with the aid of electricity. There are many devices now in existence for use in homes that are operated by electricity, and the company is now about ready to furnish day current to all parts of the city, people who desire to run make use of the different contrivances.

Saloon Keepers Arrested.

Four saloon keepers were arrested at Wausau last week charged with allowing young girls to attend dances at halls in the same building, with the saloon. There is a law which makes it a misdemeanor to allow a young girl to attend a dance in a building where there is a saloon unless accompanied by parent or guardian. Seventeen is the required age, and it would seem as if the law was a very good one.

Lawrence University Coach Says

Grand Rapids May Be in Basket Ball Tournament.

Appleton, Wis., March 12.—"Because Grand Rapids has met and defeated some of the strong basket ball teams of the Wisconsin river valley and now holds a record unblemished by defeat at the hands of any high school five, a team representing the high school of that city may be selected as one of the eight to participate in and battle for state championship in the big tournament to be held at Lawrence university gymnasium on April 6, 7 and 8," said coach Koehler yesterday while talking about the coming annual event in which high school basketball players all over the eastern section of the state are now interested.

"I have received a communication from the management of the Grand Rapids high school team," continued the Lawrence coach, "in which he states that his team is undefeated. I have observed the record made by the Grand Rapids five and now believe that the Wisconsin river city will figure among the eight to be represented in the tournament. Records of the teams of the state will not be handed in until March 20, at which time it will be definitely determined what schools will be represented, but in view of Grand Rapids' unbroken string of victories it is safe to predict that they will be given an opportunity to battle for state honors that are said to be in line for tournament entries are Oaklawn, Antigo, Fond du Lac, Appleton, Milwaukee east division, and possibly Milwaukee, south division. Interest in the tournament is intense and communications concerning eligibility are being received daily by the management. Grand Rapids was represented in the tournament last year.

The management of the tournament has already begun preparations for the event. Upwards of $100 will be spent in the purchase of gifts, silver and bronze medals to be awarded to the three teams winning first, second and third places, and to the individual members of each of the winning teams. The coaches of Omsby hall have already appointed committees to look after the details of a reception and banquet to be held at Omsby hall immediately after the announcement of the winners on the last night of the tournament. Inasmuch as Oaklawn and Fond du Lac both expect to be included in the eight competing teams, "rooters" of both those schools have already communicated with the management relative to the reservation of blocks of seats in the gymnasium for two of the three tournament nights. Indications are that the out of town attendance will be much larger this year than last.

Walter Eckerall, the crack Chicago university sprinter and football player, has been engaged to officiate in the capacity of referee, and Lindholm one of the leading basketball men at the state university has been engaged as umpire for all the tournament games.

The schedule of games for the tournament will be announced on March 26. In view of the fact that Grand Rapids is located considerably further from Appleton than some of the other cities to be represented in the tournament it is probable that the team from that city will not be chilled upon for games until the second day of the tournament.

Grand Rapids has a number of students at Lawrence university and they are already busying themselves in the interest of the basketball boys from their home city and will see that the committee in charge will prepare the best of accommodations for them during their three days' stay in Appleton.

Saturday is St. Patrick's day. This is the day on which all good Irishmen are supposed to get on a green ribbon, a pair of shaves, and go out and see his friends. This is the day on which St. Patrick banished the snakes and other crawling creatures from Ireland. At least, that is what a fellow told me once. This fellow also said that the Irish had adopted whiskey as the national drink in order to, in a measure make up for the scarcity of snakes over in that country since St. Patrick was there. There are two kinds of Irishmen. One wears a green ribbon on St. Patrick's day and the other wears an orange ribbon. Whenever one of the green ribbon fellows sees one of the orange ribbon guys coming, the green fellow generally hurries back to the washhouse and gets the ax, so that the death of the other fellow will be as swift and painless as possible. The Irish is a queer race. It is said that the only country that they do not hate is Ireland, and they even want to rule that. There are only two times during the year when an Irishman will drink whiskey: One of these is on a day when there is a circus in town and the other is when there is not a circus in town. There are many other things about St. Patrick's day and the Irish, but it might not be just the right thing to put them in print.

City clerk Bole reports that there have been no nomination papers filed for any of the city offices as yet, although there are a number being circulated about the city, and it is apparent that there will be a plentiful sufficiency to fill all of the offices. Among the new cases that have developed during the past week are T. J. Cooper for justice of the peace and Sam Church for city treasurer.

Paper Making Record.

One of the largest machines of the Rhineland Paper Co., at Rhineland, made a remarkable run last Saturday. In 21 hours machine No. 1 turned out 71,200 pounds of paper, the grade being 32 pound print. Its average run was 335 feet per minute, which of paper 108 inches. During this run there were but two breaks in the paper, one on the day shift and one on the night shift, and one hour's time was lost in washing the rolls. This record has not been equaled in the Wisconsin Valley. It is certainly a great record for a comparatively new mill, and the management, officers and employees have reason to feel proud of the achievement.—Appleton Post.

Eastern Stars Entertain.

The members of the Eastern Star held a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Pontine on Friday evening in honor of Mrs. G. R. Gardner, who was recently elected Grand Associate Conductress of the state. The evening was very pleasantly spent, there being music and other entertaining features.

Will Celebrate.

The city club will celebrate St. Patrick's day on Thursday evening by a dinner at their club rooms. It is a trifling party for the club, but on an occasion of this kind it is well to begin early and then if necessary the celebration can be lengthened out a bit and be made to extend over the auspicious event.

Rummage Sale.

7. I believe the city affairs should be run in a business like manner, without graft or favors. The city's dollar should buy as much as any man's dollar.
8. I believe that there should be some system of accounting in our city finance as is required by law. A complete system as exists in county affairs should be inaugurated.
9. My future acts are not pledged. I am allied with no monied power or corporation.

New Cable Coming.

The telephone company has ordered a new cable to span the river, and it is expected that it will be here in the near future. There was some discussion as to how it was best to put the cable, but it was decided to put it into poles with two spans reaching across the river. Two steel poles have been ordered and one of these will be placed at the east end of the bridge and another at the center pier and the cable suspended from a heavy wire. The old cable that has been attached to the bridge has become very poor with a multiplicity of cracks, owing to the fact that it was suspended from the bridge where it was subjected to constant vibration.

Planting Trout.

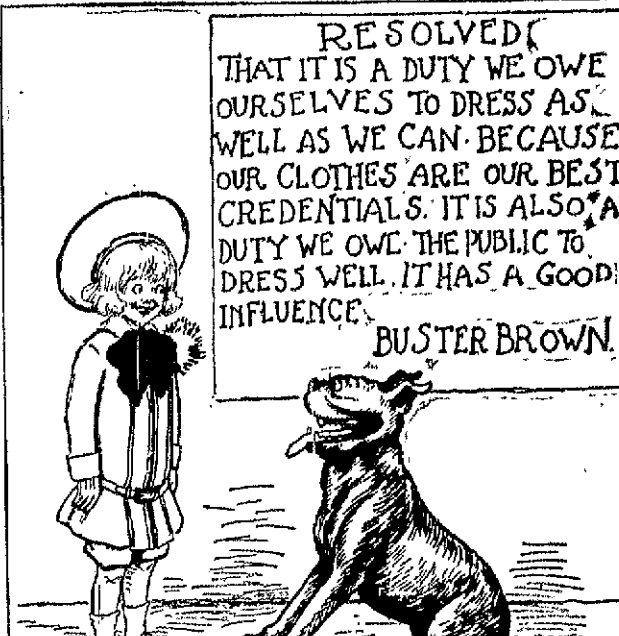

Ten cases of brook trout fry arrived in this city on Thursday for local fishermen, and they were taken out the same day and planted in the streams on the east side of the river. There are said to be 6000 trout in each case, so if only a portion of them survive for the lovers of the sport for some time to come. It seems that the demand for the fry is considerably in excess of the supply, for some of those arrived on Thursday had been ordered several years ago.
